Firm Cooking Oils, Cotton, Agri Prices Dampen Festive Spirits

Industry bodies urge members to take voluntary steps to bring down prices

Jayashree Bhasale
atimesgroup.com

Pune: Prices of agricultural commodities, such as cooking oils, cotton and guar seeds, continue to stay firm during Diwali, prompting price-control interventions from the industry and trade. "To be sure, New Delhi has taken measures such as reduction in import duty and imposition of stock limits on edible oils, but such steps have not met with limited success in restraining inflation for such commodities. While Solvent Extractors Association has urged its members to voluntarily cut cooking oil prices by 5-5% to give relief to consumers, Consideration of Indian Textile Industry (CITI) has pleaded with the government to stabilise cotton prices, which are at an 11-year high. Import of cooking oils was at a record high in September after duty cuts. However, the impact could be negated by two increases (tariff value of cooking oils—the base price on which duty is calculated) last month. "SEA members, even though they are saddled with high duty paid stocks, are responding to the needs of consumers and bringing down the selling prices. Our members have decided to further reduce prices of edible oils by ₹5,000 to ₹5,000 per tonne keeping in mind the Diwali festivities," said Anil Chaturvedi, president, SEA, in a statement. "Like cooking oils, cotton prices too have been consistently moving upward. Pradip Agarwal, chairman, Cotton Corporation of India (CCI), said, "Cotton prices have been moving upward due to international as well as domestic factors. We at CCI have cotton stocks only in the northern zone. Farmers are bringing cotton slowly to the markets as they expect prices to increase further." T Rajkumar, chairman, CITI, has demanded government intervention to stabilise the cotton prices. "The textile industry may head toward a severe raw material crisis... We appeal to the government to work out the cotton procurement and trading scheme for CCI by providing government funds to procure to 15% of the cotton which arrives in the market during the season and create a strategic stock for the price stability," said Rajkumar.
